or three individual tenants.

According to the Star, the building could fetch as much as R35 million.

The moveable assets that will be sold directly after the buildings include cameras, computers, laptops, desks, couches and photocopiers.

The New Age and TV station ANN7 were initially operated by a Gupta-owned company, Oakbay Investments.

In August last year, a firm owned by former government spokesperson

Mzwanele Manyi bought both ANN7
and The New Age.

The sale came as the Bank of Baroda pulled the plug on Gupta-owned firms, and after South Africa's top four banks blacklisted the group's accounts in 2016. Renamed Afro Worldview and AfroVoice, the news entities closed in August this year. — News24
